

The Arctic is the future

What are we going to do with it?

Policy decisions made today will have a transformative impact on the Arctic of tomorrow. From monitoring new shipping routes and improving national security, to infrastructure that supports telecommunications and emergency response mechanisms - the eyes of the world are focused north. It's our responsibility to speak up, unite as a region and as a state to fight for sound decisions that grow our economy and protect our traditional values.

Our voice. Our vision.
